Name of decision, policy, procedure, project or service: Archive search room – change in opening hours

Brief description of policy, procedure, project or service

The current opening hours for the search room are:

Monday – Wednesday	9am-6pm
Thursday	9am-8pm
Friday	9am-6pm
Saturday	9am-5pm
Sunday	Closed

Aims and Objectives

Libraries, Registration & Archives (LRA) has reviewed the opening hours of the Archive search room taking into account a range of criteria to shape a proposal including; usage figures, customer feedback already received and opening hours of other Archive services. The proposal is to reduce the opening hours by 15 hours a week. This will contribute towards LRA's Medium Term Financial Plan targets for 2018/19.

To be clear, this reduction in opening hours only applies to the Archives search room itself, not the full Archives service. Staff will still be available to answer customer enquiries online and by telephone during the newly proposed closed times. As not everyone is able to travel to Maidstone to use the Archive, many customers already access the service remotely.

The Kent History and Library Centre's standard local studies section will still be open and accessible. Customers will still be able to use these resources during this time, including parish records and newspapers on microfilm. It's the more specialised resources where access will be slightly more restricted. As plans for digitisation of the Archives progress, our expectation is that more people will be able to access our collections online.

This is a proposal that we are now taking to public consultation so that customers' feedback can be taken into account before any decision is taken.

We want to ensure any reduction of hours is focussed on less busy times during the week, retaining Saturday opening to ensure access for those working Monday – Friday, as well as school children and students. It is proposed that the search room is closed one day a week with the remainder of the hours reduced over the rest of the working week. The proposal is to close on a Friday and open 9-5 Monday – Thursday and Saturday. We welcome customer feedback as part of the public consultation to shape the final outcome.

This proposal does mean a reduction in hours, but many other authorities' Archive services are not open as long as Kent's current hours, and the same is true of the National Archives. Even with the suggested reduction in opening hours, Kent will still be open for longer than other archive services in the region- please see data and other Archive opening hours included in the full impact assessment section.

Friday has been selected as the proposed closed day for two reasons

- It is already one of the quieter days in terms of customer visits
- Friday as the closed day would not clash with the majority of neighbouring archive services' closed days. This is important as customers have said they often use more than one archive service in the region.

The closed day will enable use of the Archive search room for other purposes, such as group visits from local schools and colleges, or events. Many of our older customers have told us they do not like to travel to KHLC in the evening, and therefore do not attend events in which they are interested. The closure of the search room will allow us to have the space to offer events during the day. This closure will also present the opportunity to see the Archive team at work on the historic collections.

Consultation will focus on the Archive search room users and Archive service customers as these will be the main audience impacted by this proposal. The consultation will give service users the opportunity to provide feedback on the proposed new opening hours before a decision is taken.

JUDGEMENT

Continue to progress the proposal

The consultation process will be used to identify negative impacts on the identified protected characteristic groups, and will set future opening hours which best suit the majority of search room users.

I have found the Adverse Equality Impact Rating to be Low

Part 1 - Screening

Regarding the decision, policy, procedure, project or service under consideration,

Could this policy, procedure, project or service, or any proposed changes to it, affect any Protected Group (listed below) less favourably (negatively) than others in Kent?

Could this policy, procedure, project or service promote equal opportunities for this group?

Please note that there is no justification for direct discrimination; and indirect discrimination will need to be justified according to the legal requirements

Part 2 - Full Equality Analysis /Impact Assessment

From the screening grid, identify the Protected Groups impacted

Age

- Negative: Possibly young people attending school or college or Monday-Friday workers, but felt mitigated by the Saturday offer
- Positive: More opportunities for class visits, events, activities that benefit current Archive users, and those who haven't visited before. For example, older people tell us they are reluctant to visit after dark so not always able to attend evening events. The amended opening hours would enable us to hold events in the daytime which is not possible at present.

NB: This only a consultation stage EQIA so want to test this initial assessment with customers, which will then result in a fully reviewed EQIA taking all impact into account.

Information and Data used to carry out your assessment

- Carol Westwood to find out whether Mosaic report could be updated
- Information collected from Netloan (the PC booking system) shows no consistency on which week day is the quietest in terms of number of seats booked, but does reveal that Friday is most often the quietest day in terms of hours of use (excluding Saturday).

We use search room seats use as a guide as use of the Archive search room as customers don't just come in to the Archive, you need to book a desk in the Archive search room to look at original archive material and some of the printed material. From these tables it can be seen that there is a variation in usage across the weekdays with Mondays and Fridays being the lowest levels of use. There are clearly low levels of use after 5pm every day but good levels of use first thing at 9am when Kent History and Library Centre opens.

Who have you involved consulted and engaged with?

From 22nd January for 5 weeks we will be consulting with:

- Archive search room customers (anyone with a library card activated for the search room)
- Archive User Group
- Archive service customers including those who use us online
- KCC members

From the information above we can see that what Kent is proposing for its opening hours is aligned to the principles applied elsewhere.

Consultation methodology:

- Consultation leaflet explaining rationale and showing the current opening hours and the proposed opening hours
- Poster at KHLC/Archive search room
- Email / newsletter to user list
- Feedback questionnaire with relevant About You questions – digital and hard copy versions
- Staff in the Archive search room and KHLC briefed to promote consultation to customers and provide support
- Email to key stakeholders not covered by above
- Briefing to Archive user group so aware just in advance
- Entry on consultation directory and invite to registered users who have expressed an interest in being kept informed on consultations regarding Libraries and Archives
- A dedicated page on the Archive website with a copy of the poster. It will signpost people to the consultation documents and questionnaire so they can reply online <https://www.kentarchives.org.uk/>
- All consultation material will be in plain English.
- Staff will be briefed to promote the consultation and provide support to customers who need assistance to understand the proposals and to respond.
- All consultation material to include details of how people can request alternative formats
